Key features to consider include:

- Theme and Subject Matter: The script?s central message or storyline. Is it educational, humorous, dramatic, or a combination? Does it address topics relevant to the target audience?

- Length and Structure: The number of scenes, acts, or sections. Is it suitable for a single session, or designed for multiple readings?

- Number of Characters: How many roles are available? Are they designed for individual readers or groups?

- Reading Level and Accessibility: Is the language appropriate for the intended age group? Are there challenging vocabulary or complex sentence structures?

- Stage Directions: Minimal but meaningful stage directions help performers understand movement, gestures, or tone without overwhelming the text. Does the script balance dialogue with stage directions effectively?

- Repetition and Refrain: Repetitive phrases or choruses can enhance memorability and audience engagement, especially with younger audiences.

Content Flow and Engagement

The narrative flow should keep readers and audiences engaged. Check whether the script:

- Has a compelling beginning that introduces characters and setting effectively.

- Features a rising action that builds interest and tension.

- Contains a climax that provides emotional or thematic payoff.

- Concludes with a satisfying resolution or message.

The pacing should allow performers to develop characters and emotions naturally without feeling rushed.

- Vocabulary: Are challenging words defined contextually? Are there opportunities for vocabulary development?

- Syntax: Does the sentence structure support fluency and comprehension?
